IT Support Professional. Open to opportunities.

Birmingham, England, United Kingdom

Summary

I'm an IT Support Professional with experience providing first-line support and helping users resolve technical issues in a fast-paced support environment. In my previous role, I provided Level 1 support to users and administrators, handling requests through calls, emails and support portals. I'm comfortable troubleshooting issues, following established processes, communicating clearly with users and making sure problems are handled efficiently from start to finish. I'm particularly interested in building my career within IT and developing my skills across technical support, systems, networking and cybersecurity. I enjoy solving problems, learning new technologies and finding practical solutions when things don't go as expected. I'm currently open to IT opportunities where I can continue developing professionally, gain hands-on technical experience and contribute to a strong support team.
